

The Dancer

Words and Music by RONNIE SANDERS

Soprano I
Soprano II

Alto

The danc - er sweeps a - cross the stage freed from deep in -

Sop I
Sop II

side her cage, She be - gins to swing and sway giv - ing life —

A

Sop I Sop II

to the play. From the wings her part - ner comes, lift - ing her up

A

Sop I Sop II

in his arms, He stoops to hold his grace - ful doe, then kneels — down and

A

Sop I Sop II

reach - es low.. The two be - gin to move as one, jump - ing, pranc - ing

A

Sop I Sop II

hav - ing fun! They lift and toss as if they knew each o - ther's thoughts be - fore they do.

A

Sop I      Sop II

Hours of prac - tice pay off when they make the hard - est jump a - gain. They pre - pare to slow down when the danc - ing scene be - gins to end. With one huge leap and

A

Sop I      Sop II

A

Sop I      Sop II

one strong toss the danc - ers make their fi - nal cross She runs, he catch - es

A

Sop I      Sop II

her in stride and spins a - round with grace - ful pride. The two stand proud with

A

Sop I      Sop II

grace and poise, the crowd stands up with thun - drous noise. The danc - ers bow with

A

Sop I      Sop II

pant - ing chests, _____ they both know that they need a rest!

A